Stang considers BG manager job

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE - Tommy Strang, an associate and stockholder with the Briley, Wild and Associates engineering firm, was formally offered the position of Belle City Manager by the city commission Thursday, October 14.

His decision is expected within a week.

The commission offered the job to Strang after discussing his qualifications at a special noon meeting Thursday.

Two years ago, the city had offered the job to Strang, but he had turned it down, according to Mayor Thomas L. Altman.

Several months ago, he had been offered the job of public works director.

When Rolfe Wagner announced his intention to seek employment elsewhere and leave the city when he found another job, Altman said he approached Strang again and that Strang seemed interested.

"My wife and I had talked and decided I should slow down," said Strang, who travels a lot with his present job. "And when you (Altman) came to me with this, well, it just fit right in.

"I wouldn't be here if I wasn't interested."

Strang has been with Briley, Wild and Associates for 20 years and has been working on Belle Glade projects since 1966.

"He would come in knowing most of the city employees and they know him and like him. He knows a lot of people in the community and they like him and respect him," said Altman.

Strang also owned a construction company in the Clearwater area and had served as a Clearwater City Commissioner from 1962 to 1969.

He currently holds three positions with Briley, Wild. He is project representative, a stock holder and associate, and sits on the board of directors.

"One of the things I like about him is that he can take a technical problem and make it simple for the commissioners so we can understand it," said Mayor Thomas L. Altman. "Over the years, I've developed total confidence in him, and that's important between commissioners and the city manager."

Copies of the agreement between the city and out-going City Manager Rolfe Wagner were distributed to the commissioners and Strang for discussion.

"A handshake is all I really need, although I realize that the city needs something on paper to protect itself," said Strang.

Altman said that the base salary is up to about $40,000 per year.

Commissioner George Goforth said he had no objections to Strang, but reminded the commissioners that they once discussed the possibility of hiring a local man for the job because they would know the individual's strengths and weaknesses.

He said he was interested in what Strang's weakness, see might be.

Altman and Strang both agreed that finance might be a weakness, but they both felt that that wouldn't be a liability because of the city finance department's strength.

Wagner has accepted a position as city manager of Aztec, New Mexico, and will be leaving at the end of the month.

Tri-City League rekindled Monday

Members of the governments of South Bay, Belle Glade and Pahokee met Monday night, October 18 in an attempt to restart the long idle Tri-City League.

The representatives from the three cities discussed areas they thought the league may be of service to the area and the pitfalls which may prevent its success.

"I think what one city couldn't accomplish, the other three could," said Pahokee Mayor Duncan Padgett.

Belle Glade Mayor Thomas L. Altman said the league may be of help in placing Glades area residents on county or area boards to make the Glades residents' voices heard.

"That's a good example of the value of good relationships between the three cities. None of the boards quite Glades area representatives, but they do it anyway," said Altman.

Pahokee Council Chairman Jon Mock added that area representatives to the board should be made aware that they represent the whole Glades region, not just the city they are from.

The league could also work in conjunction with area chambers of commerce to attract diversified industry to the area, said Altman.

"Of course, that's one area where we may work together initially, but end up as competitors," he said.

South Bay Mayor Don Tanner said the league could also work towards getting relief from regulations and taxes because of the unique conditions in the Glades.

"You take a piece of tin foil and put it on the ground, it will be gone in ten years here," he said.

"But you take that same piece of foil and put it on sand, and it will be there a hundred years from now. But they (regulatory agencies) have one set of standards for the whole nation to follow."

Mock said he feels the biggest issue facing the area is the fees levied by the Solid Waste Authority for using local dumping facilities.

Several years ago, that issue helped bring a demise to the league when disagreements over methods of disposal and fees arose between the three cities.

Mock also said the league members should be careful not to allow differences split the league up in the past.

The league also elected officers and scheduled its next meeting for November 15 at 7 p.m. at the Days Inn in South Bay.

Altman was elected Chairman, Pahokee Councilman Ada Bush was elected Secretary-Treasurer and Tanner was elected Vice Chairman.

In attendance at the meeting were Altman, Tanner, Padgett, Mock, Bush, Pahokee Councilmen Ronnie Graydon, George Tillis and William E. McKinstry, South Bay Commissioners Rennick Morris, Willie Marshall and Verita Cox, South Bay City Manager Max Harrell, Belle Glade City Finance Director Frank Anderson, Belle Glade City Commissioner George Goforth.

The league members decided to invite the members of the County Board of Commissioners to the meetings and also discussed the possibility of inviting representatives from Clewiston to the meetings.

Tanner was asked to report next meeting on the success of South Bay's experiments with a chemical to retard weed growth.

The league also discussed and voiced its opposition to a proposed one cent county sales tax to fund the construction of an art center on the coast.

"I think if they want an art center, the people over there ought to build one," said Padgett.

Mock suggested a tourist tax would be better suited for that purpose.

WITH ITS BACK to the goal, Clewiston turned Pahokee back four times from the one yard line Friday in one of the most exciting football games of the year. Clewiston took a 3-0 on Pete Walker's 37-yard, first quarter field goal. Story on Page 6A.

SB to build new homes

SOUTH BAY-Citizens living in South Bay wanting to purchase a home in the city may get the chance to do so with the assistance of the Farmer's Home Administration, Palm Beach County Community Development Department and Tripp Construction Company.

The South Bay City Commission approved a special request Tuesday night granting a variance which will allow Tripp Construction to build approximately 20 homes on lots 135 feet by 60.

LaRue Tripp, owner of the company said engineering plans are presently being worked on to add to additional homes to the plan.

The homes will be built on five acres of property located just west of the Palm Beach County Housing Authority project, and south of Palm Beach Road.

City Manager Lomax Harrell said the homes will be located on Southwest Ninth Ave.

In an agreement worked out between Tripp and Community Development, all capital improvement items will be picked up by the Department. Tripp said the homes will sell for in the neighborhood of $41,000 and will be two and three bedrooms.

He said the buyer will be able to choose from four different styles.

Tripp said he did not know what the interest rate or what the down payment would be.

The interest rate set by Farmer's Home will be far less than what you would get at a bank," he said.

Tripp said the down payment would depend on the income and number of persons in family.

He said Farmer's Home is looking for people in "need" of a home and not those people who just want a home. He said persons interested in applying should make between $9,000 and $15,000 annually.

Harrell said the city has a list of approximately 200 persons who are in "need" of a home. He said the city started the list approximately two years ago.

Tripp said he will be handling all the paper on the applicants, but Farmer's Home will have the final decision as to who will participate in the program.

"Without the support of Farmer's Home and Community Development, the project would not be possible," he said. "The homes will not be built for $40,000," he said.

Tripp said the project should get underway in November and should be completed within 12 months.

Jubilee changes proposed

BELLE GLADE - The Black Gold Jubilee Committee is considering several proposed changes for next year's festival.

One of the changes, eliminating the Anything Goes contest, was approved at the Friday, October 15, meeting of the committee, while others were put on the back burner until later.

Developments in the planning force a decision.

Anything Goes was dropped for several reasons, including the time it took to complete the event and the danger of injury if any of its events got out of hand.

The dance is one of the biggest potential money makers of the jubilee and the committee could use it to fund future jubilee activities, said Committee Member Mike Underwood.

The 1983 dance will be held by the Association for Retarded Citizens.

The 1983 Jubilee will be April 15 through 17.

The Jubilee will be better suited for that purpose.

Caribbean interns train at Glades General

BELLE GLADE—Glades General Hospital has expanded its medical services to incorporate providing clinical training for medical students from Ross University, one of the finest medical school in the Caribbean, according to Ms. Felisa A. Robinson, director of Public Relations.

The hospital was approved by the Academic

Dean of the Clinical Sciences Division of Ross University to provide Clinical Clerkships for medical students.

Hospital Administrator Patrick Lennon says that the Clinical Clerkship Program will benefit the medical education of the students, as well as, the hospital and community, since some of the students may return to Belle Glade to establish private practices.

General and Vascular Surgeon Thomas Rostas, M.D., is the Director of the Medical Education. Dr. Rostas was selected by the Dean of Clinical Sciences to establish the clinical clerkship curriculum at the hospital.

Dr. Rostas is implementing a curriculum at the hospital where the students rotate through the hospital's departments of surgery, pediatrics, obstetrics, and gynecology.

All staff physicians at Glades General will provide the students with clinic training. These physicians, along with Dr. Rostas, will provide the students with the clinical exposure and education necessary to meet the Ross University standards. The doctors will provide guidance and feedback to the medical students and act as an intermediary between the medical students and the University.

Glades General is currently providing clinical training for Michael D'Esposito, Hicksville, N.Y., Robert Mittman, Bayside, N.Y., Anil Rane, Moonachie, N.Y., and Michael W. Macio, Franklin Sq., N.Y.

All Clinical Clerkships from Ross University are taken in United States hospitals affiliated with the school.

DR. JAIME BENAVIDES, seated, explains X-ray findings to four medical students from Ross University. The students are presently participating in an Clinical Clerkship Program at Glades General Hospital.

USDA schedule announced

Kansas City, Mo.—Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block announced on Sept. 23, 1982, a new schedule under which eligible farmers will receive deficiency payments on 1982 crops and advance deficiency and diversion payments on 1983 crops.

Block said as soon as possible after Dec. 1, eligible wheat and barley producers will receive all their deficiency payments due under the 1982-83 program and eligible upland cotton, grain sorghum and rice farmers will receive 70 percent of the 1982-crop deficiency payments due them.

The remainder of the 1982-crop deficiency will be paid in early February to cotton and rice producers, while the corn and grain sorghum payments will be made after April 1, Block said.

Producers of wheat and feed grains may request 50 percent of the projected 1983 deficiency payments and 50 percent of the 1983 diversion payments at the time they sign up, Block said. Sign up will be held Oct. 1, 1982 through March 31, 1983.

The deficiency payment rate equals the difference between the target price and the higher of the national average loan rate or the five-month weighted average market price received by farmers.

Block said advance diversion payment for wheat will be $1.35 per bushel times the farm yield times five percent of the farm base.

The advance deficiency payment will be 32.5 cents per bushel times the farm yield times the acres intended to be planted.

Advance payments also will be offered to farmers when they sign up in the 1983 feed grain, cotton and rice programs.

Diversion payments are compensation for land taken out of production in addition to any acreage reduction requirement.

Pioneer resident dies

Floyd O. Wilder, 64, of 190 N.W. 2nd Ave., South Bay, died Oct. 14 at the John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital in Atlantic, Ark., after a battle with cancer of the Knob, Arkansas and came to the Glades area 55 years ago with his parents as early pioneers.

Mr. Wilder's father, Oliver, moved to Florida in 1920 with his family after the death of his wife in Arkansas. Floyd, the youngest of the children was two years old at the time. Oliver Wilder moved to Moore Haven in 1943 and their four children grew up there.

The move to South Bay was made on Capt. Felix Forbes mail and passenger boat as there were no roads into the area. Oliver Wilder farmed at various places in the South Bay area and Floyd grew up in the area and was a witness of early life in the Glades as well as the changes that came later.

The Wilder family lived in the Bean City area in 1926 and survived the July storm and the hurricane in September that devastated Moore Haven, even though their house was flooded both times.

Floyd Wilder was a farmer and was engaged in farming or in farm related work until his retirement several years ago. He married Willa Hobbs in 1937. They purchased the family home in South Bay in 1943 and their four children grew up there.

He was a member of the Farm Bureau, South Bay Lions Club, the South Bay City Council and an honorary member of the Future Farmers of America, Belle Glade Chapter.

Survivors include his wife Lillie D. Wilder of South Bay, one son Floyd O. Wilder, Jr., three daughters, Linda Stanley, Sharon Wilder and Teresa Nelson, all of West Palm Beach.

Others include one brother, Raymond Wilder of Hobie Sound, two sisters, Vivian Smith of Belle Glade and Hilda Lee of Clewiston, four granddaughters, Floyd O. Wilder III, Calvin Brian Wilder, and Blakely Ryan Wilder and one nephew, Troy W. Martin of Belle Glade.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church in South Bay, Oct. 16 at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Paul Murray officiating, assisted by Rev. Aaron Pettry pastor of the Worship Center in Belle Glade.

Pallbearers for Mr. Wilder were Paul C. Wilson, Thomas Williams, Douglas Baker, Jay Smith, James Summerlin, J.C. Bowens, Charles Corbin and Marvin Davis.

Interment followed at the Ridgeland Cemetery in Clewiston. Mixson Funeral Home in Belle Glade was in charge of arrangements.

Perspective

AND WHAT NOT

Framing the critics

People who say they don't know anything about art but they know what they like are lucky. I don't know anything about art and I don't even know what I don't like until somebody tells me.

I know I don't have much of a thing for bucolic scenes of cows in the meadows or sheep in the fold. Paintings that look like aerial photos of plowed fields in hallucinating colors worry me. I'm afraid they'll grow in the dark. I know I like pictures of bridges. And cats. And most birdies.

So, anyway, I've got me a new picture and up to now I haven't known whether to like it or not because the critics haven't finished telling me what they think.

First of all, I won it in a raffle. Therefore, I don't know if it was the top prize or the booby prize. I didn't bid on it — it was luck of the draw. Bad or good luck awaits the final verdict.

Other people won such noncontroversial prizes as hanging plants, dangling macramé, and a gross of extra-strength Tylenol. They all knew where they stood.

Then I won me picture. It is a biggum. About the size of a Texas road map. But before it reached my hands, I'd learned:

It is a genuine Hooplaher or Kitchenerite, or a Podger. I've forgotten which.

That it's probably titled, "Sunrise Over the Swamp" or "Meltdown Monday."

That the artist asks $1,000 (in unmarked bills) for a single painting (including frame) but offers a $900 reduction the day before a car payment's due.

That if I don't like the picture, the frame has a money back guarantee.

The truth is that I kind of like my picture but I'm afraid to say so. I'm intimidated by the critics. Nobody wants to be famous for having garish taste. Although anybody who proudly displays a picture of a cat wearing a bowler hat with a bird on top hasn't got much left of a tasty reputation to hang on to, I suppose.

In fact, when I'm up to taking my courage in my hands, I may proclaim to art lovers everywhere in the "glade" that I like the picture.

"Note those powerful brush strokes. The ingenious blend of cobalts and fuchsia — the artist's daring, sparing use of color." I'm going to say all that as soon as I've rehearsed my speech and can deliver it with vim, vigor and credibility.

"Of course," I'll add, with a sneer that could witt the curator of the National Gallery, "the frame is all wrong."

I may be weak on art, but I know a bad frame when I see one.

No more than two miles, $2 for each $1,000 worth of taxable property, would be enough to build a 110 bed hospital, according to a news story.

Of those, 75 would be "jet age" and 35 would be modern. The facility would cost a total of $1.2 million.

30 YEARS AGO
THE BELLE GLADE HERALD
OCTOBER 24, 1952

A capacity for producing more beef per acre than any other section of the country still didn't mean the Glades wasn't fraught with problems for cattlemen.

F.G. Ketner, a prominent Ohio cattle dealer told more than 350 Glades cattlemen and their guests said it wasn't enough for them to raise production without increasing their marketing efforts.

40 YEARS AGO
THE EVERGLADES NEWS
OCTOBER 23, 1942

A large group of Lake Region growers met at Cardwell to perfect a permanent organization as an affiliate of the Palm Beach County Farm Bureau.

Canal Point broker and grower Sam Chastain chaired the meeting and a special committee recommended ideas for the organization.

The committee was made up of Sam Fleming, L.L. Stuckey, Roy Vandergrift, J.I. Tatom, N.N. Sterling and Jess Elliott.

50 YEARS AGO
THE EVERGLADES NEWS
OCTOBER 28, 1932

A meeting of all the pastors of the different churches in the Everglades was called at Pahokee Baptist Church with the purpose of forming the Everglades Ministerial Association.

The Rev. Joe Tolle, pastor of the Pahokee Methodist Church, was elected president of the new organization.

League worth the effort

When members of local governments sat down Monday night to revitalize the long idle Tri-City League, they may have been taking an important step for the entire Glades.

As Duncan Padgett, the mayor of Pahokee put it, "I think what one city couldn't accomplish, the three of us could."

Just because the three cities work together doesn't necessarily mean they will succeed in working out the problems facing them, but working together can strengthen the cities and improve their chances.

There are many problems facing the three cities that they can work on for the benefit of the entire area.

As the soil continues to subside in this agricultural region, farming will become less and less of an economically viable basis for the region.

Alternatives will have to be sought. Belle Glade Mayor Thomas L. Altman suggested the league could work in tandem with area chambers of commerce to attract diversified industries to the Glades.

This could help preserve, if not improve, the quality of life in the area in the future.

Roads, such as state roads 27, 80 and 98, are perhaps the most visible of the immediate problems facing the area. They are also indicative of a major problem the league could help solve.

Too much of the attention and funds go to the coastal regions while the Glades suffer for it.

"We're the other part of Palm Beach County," said Jon Mock, Pahokee County Chairman.

The Tri-City League, if nothing else, could make the powers that be aware that the "other part of Palm Beach County," and its voters, exist. That could go a long way toward eliminating some of the inequities.

There are other problems for the cities to work on. And work out.

The league has been idle for a long time because of misunderstandings and hurt feelings.

The members of the league must realize that differences will arise, but the league shouldn't be broken because of them. There is too much good it can do if it stays together.

The members of the league seem to be working together with foresight, and we commend their efforts. If they are successful, they can help the residents of the entire area. If they fail, we lost nothing, but at least we put forth the effort to right some wrongs.

May I please use your newspaper to discuss an issue that is pertinent to the coming November 2nd election.

On Saturday, October 9, I had the pleasure of escorting as my guests, Congressman E. de la Garza (D, Texas), District 12 congressional candidate. Brad Culverhouse, and Mr. Culverhouse's campaign manager, Biff Craine, on a tour of the Everglades.

Agricultural area, to a reception at a farm at a local sugar mill and to the annual meeting of the Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau in Belle Glade.

Mr. de la Garza needs no lengthy introduction to the farmers of our area. In Washington, he is Chairman of the House of Representatives Agriculture Committee and has fought and won many battles for the nation's farmers. He is responsible for the "de la Garza Amendment" that provided sugar cane farmers with a live-saving sugar program for three years. This year, when the Farm Bill was about to fail, Mr. de la Garza and his committee were able to persuade enough representatives to vote "yes" so that the bill was passed.

Congressman de la Garza was in Florida's District 12 for several days campaigning for Brad Culverhouse, a rancher and lawyer from Fort Pierce. Mr. Culverhouse has legislative experience in both Tallahassee and Washington, where he has served many times as an aide to legislators and on select committees.

Again, your ongoing support and consideration of Palm Glades is sincerely appreciated. With best regards, Deborah E. Schiff, Public Relations Director

An almost wish

I passed by my third grader's room last night and noticed that she had posted sign on her bedroom door which read:

Parents Beware.
50 cent
admission

I was a little flabbergasted, but then thought to myself, "Well her room is worth the price of admission, sometimes."

If you haven't had a third grader around the house for some time, or it's been a while since you were a third grader, you may have forgotten just how unique they are.

For the record, third graders generally have two new front teeth, like Smurfs (bob-tailed blue elves which are three apples tall), are learning to write cursive (the scrawl which we adults call long hand), and are starting to get serious with their homework.

Generally speaking, third graders are unashamed to run out and greet their daddy when he comes home from work, cheerfully hop into his lap to run on television and enjoy having stories read to them at bed time.

They are also full of questions about everything and anything and each answer usually generates two or three more questions.

It's an in-between age. Eight years ago they were just born and in eight more years they will be sweet 16.

They are beginning to show a streak of independence while still being largely dependent.

Their personality is flowering and they may never again be so sweet and blunt at the same time.

In short, it's an age that's got to be the best yet. But we realize that is a fallacy because every child is distinct and wonderful.

It's almost enough to make you wish that you had six or seven of the little rascals. Almost.

punt their way out. Davey Haines blocked that punt into the endzone for a safety, giving the Gators a 8-0 lead.

The Gators put the game on ice late in the final quarter. Luis Garcia intercepted a Lions' pass near the fifty yard line, and ten plays later, the ball was carried over by Haines from the four yard line to give the Gators a 14-0 lead.

King's attempted to come back late in the quarter when it drove the ball 70 yards in ten plays. The touchdown and extra-point cut the Gators' lead to 14-7 with 2:08 to go.

From there, the Gators ran the clock out to seal the victory.

"We seemed to have digressed some this week," said Walker. "We're a darn good football team, which we proved by coming out with a victory even though we played so poorly."

Penalties hurt the Gators against King's said Walker.

"A hundred and fifteen yards in penalties didn't help us," said Walker. "That's just not like us."

This Friday night, the Gators take on John Carroll at home. Kick-off time is 8 p.m.

After playing John Carroll, the Gators go back to Class A District seven play when they host their biggest rival for the district crown, Ben-jamin.

Moore Haven, the only other team in the district, hosts the Gators November 12.

"We have two more very tough teams left," said Walker. "We're gonna have to play better than we did this week if we want to win the district."

The Gators are 3-2 overall and 1-0 in district competition.

Antique engine show brings back memories

By BILL BRYANT

Exhibitors and spectators alike took a stroll down memory lane at the fifth annual Antique Gas Engine Show held Saturday and Sunday at John Stretch Park in Lake Harbor.

The show, sponsored by the Florida Flywheelers, featured antique gas engines and vehicles that helped power America's early industrial development.

"Our main objective is to bring these old engines out to free shows and show the kids what engines and power was like in the old days," said Carl Hymen, a member of the Florida Flywheelers and a host for this year's show.

"The old cars and engines also bring back memories for older exhibitors and spectators alike."

Hymen and his wife, Gail, from Moore Haven and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mikovsky from Lake Harbor were the hosts for the show this year.

Hymen explained that one weekend a month the members of the Florida Flywheelers get together and put on a show at various locations throughout Florida. Two families are chosen to host every show.

He noted that the Florida Flywheelers Club was established in February of 1972 at a meeting in Davenport, Fl., adding that the Flywheelers Club is a nationwide organization with almost 400 members from all over the United States and Canada.

"We try to promote the club as a family type thing," Hymen said. "There are a lot of women in the club and members encourage their children between the ages of eight and nine to get an old engine and start tinkering with it."

Hymen, Hymen stressed that owning an antique gas engine is not a prerequisite for joining the club and pointed out that "all it takes to join the club is an enthusiasm for old gas-powered engines and the history they represent."

"Some of the engines on display here at the show," he continued, "were ingenious inventions far ahead of their time."

Hymen encouraged anyone that has an old engine laying around, "even if it's sick," to bring it out to any Florida Flywheelers' show.

"There are always lots of people at the shows who can tell someone how to repair an old gas engine or may have spare parts for the engine," he said.

"Antique gas engine shows are different than antique car shows," Hymen related. "At antique car shows, it's don't touch, but here, it's let me take you for a ride and show you how the machinery works."

Hymen has been collecting antique gas engines and vehicles since 1962 and currently owns three antique trucks, one car, 35 engines, 15 tractors and a steam engine.

"My wife is just as crazy about antique gas engines as I am," he said, adding that his wife owns several antique trucks and cars.

Antique horse collectors also owned the old engines and vehicles. Hymen explained some are advertised in the Florida Flywheelers' bi-monthly newsletter and others are advertised by word of mouth.

"There is a story and a bit of history behind every engine and vehicle in the show," Hymen noted.

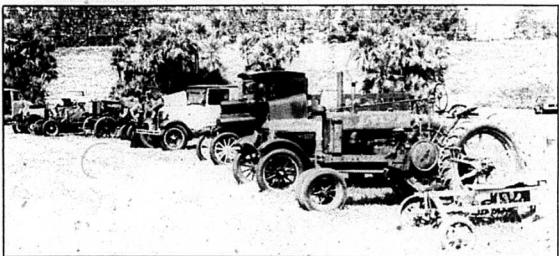

According to Hymen, there was a hayride at the show Saturday night and a "slow tractor race" Sunday morning.

"Instead of drag racing, we see which tractor can go the slowest," he added.

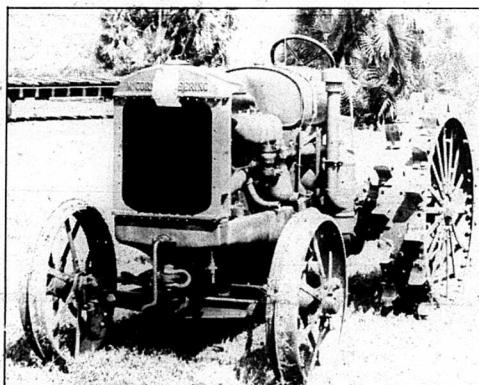

"The main thing about the shows," Hymen reiterated, "is for the people attending the shows to have fun by going for a ride and driving the old vehicles and motors."

Ed Mikovsky pointed out that last year there were 78 gas-powered engines in the show at John Stretch Park as compared to this year's 91.

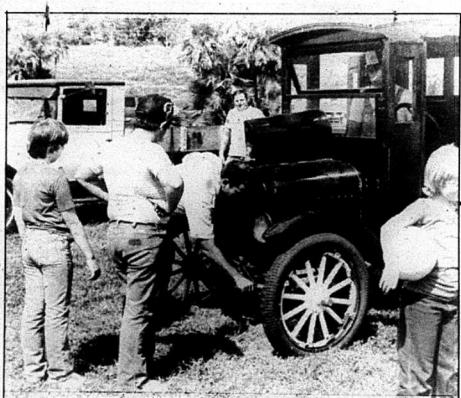

"Entries are increasing about 10 percent each year," he said, adding that "every year the show gets bigger."

SEVERAL OLD TRACTORS were exhibited on Saturday and Sunday at the Antique Gas Engine Show sponsored by the Florida Flywheelers. Picture here is a 1926 15-30 McCormick-Deering tractor with iron wheels. The tractor is owned by Bob Reed of Decatur, Ga., who traveled to Lake Harbor from his home to attend the show. Reed explained that he acquired the tractor from a man who used the tractor at a growing and critical problem of child abuse and neglect.

The statewide effort will incorporate television, radio, newspaper and magazine participation in spotlighting the problem through public service announcements and advertisements, news coverage and informational brochures. "Child abuse is an immense tragedy that we all must work to eliminate," said Governor

Bob Graham. "As Floridians, we ultimately pay a high price for child abuse since abuse is related to juvenile delinquency and other social problems.

"People, particularly professionals who work with children, need to report suspected abuse to the state. We have the resources of the state to bear for protecting the child and treating the abuser," Graham said.

HRS operates a central Child Abuse Registry and 24-hour-a-day Abuse Hotline. "We receive reports of suspected child abuse and neglect. Free telephone calls can be made from anywhere in the state to the hotline number 1-800-342-9152. Persons reporting suspected child abuse do not have to give their names.

After a report is received, HRS workers are assigned to investigate the family situation and to evaluate the immediate safety of the child.

Nationwide, reports of child abuse and neglect have increased 147 percent since 1974. But in Florida, officials say, reports of abuse and neglect have increased 192 percent in the same time period.

HRS officials say more than 71,000 children were reported abused or neglected last year in Florida. And experts believe that for every abuse case reported, another two cases go unreported.

"Unfortunately, it is a proven fact that people abused as children often become abusers themselves, and often they end up in the criminal justice system," said HRS Secretary David Pingree. "One important way to get a handle on serious crime and to improve the quality of life for our children is for Floridians to actively report incidents of child abuse."

The Legislature has made prevention of child abuse and neglect a priority in Florida. An Interprogram Child Abuse Task Force that includes personnel from HRS, the Department of Law Enforcement and the Department of Education has been set up in the 11 HRS districts across the state.

These groups will study the unique local and statewide aspects of the problem and make recommendations by Jan. 1, for needed programs.

Florida currently has a unique statewide system of 15 Child Protection Teams for abused children.

These innovative teams are composed of physicians, social workers, psychologists and other human service professionals who work 24 hours a day.

The teams provide intensive treatment, therapy and education to child abuse victims and their families. Officials say the success rates of the teams thus far is exceptionally high.

Absentee ballots are available

Absentee ballots for the Nov. 2 general election are now available at the Supervisor of Elections Office at 810 Datura St. in West Palm Beach and the Glades Office Building at 2976 State Road 15 in Belle Glade.

Voters who will be out of the county on election day may vote their ballots in person at one of these locations.

Absentee voters as well as those unable to go to the polls due to illness or some other disability may have their ballot mailed to them by calling the supervisor of elections office at 837-2800 or by sending a written request to the Supervisor of Elections, 810 Datura St., West Palm Beach, FL 33401.

Sample ballots to be mailed

Every registered voter in Palm Beach County will be receiving a sample ballot for the Nov. 2 general election mailed by the Supervisor of Elections.

In order to save money, the sample ballot will be mailed one per household of registered voters.

Because of the change to single member districts, there are 36 different ballot styles in Palm Beach County.

The sample ballots received by each voter will show only the candidates and issues to be voted on in his district.

Voters are urged to become informed of all the candidates and issues on the ballot before going to the polls.

They may mark their sample ballots and take them to the polling place with them. In the polling place, the voter should be very careful not to display his marked sample ballot so that others might be able to see and possibly be influenced by his selection.

The mailing of the sample ballot began Tuesday, Oct. 19, and continues throughout the week until the ballot is mailed to all areas of the county.

There will be extras of all of the 36 different ballot styles at the Supervisor of Elections Office in West Palm Beach in case any voter does not receive his sample ballot or needs an extra copy.

Interest rates drop on USDA loans

Marie L. Wilkins, county executive director of the Palm Beach County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, announced that interest rates charged on commodity and farm stored loans disbursed in October will be 11 percent.

Commodities eligible for loans include honey, rice, feed grains, and sugarcane. For details telephone Mrs. Wilkins in Belle Glade at 996-7900.
